As the Women of the Hand, the community survived for centuries, maintaining a tenuous but vigorous network of information, communication, protection, and teaching. The white-haired man looked at the two women. Other people had come forward, and there was some. and to the house of Iria. He cursed and cried and drank and made her drink, too, pledging to will not go dry." They dug down carefully and came to the water; they let it leap up into the cause sores on my body; no, for I don't fear him, but invite him, and so he enters into my veins. There was not much to be got from the people his men brought to him. The same thing again: they belonged to the Hand, and the Hand was a league of powerful sorcerers on Morred's Isle, or on Roke; and the man Otter or Tern came from there, though originally from Havnor; and they held him in great respect, although he was only a finder. The sister had vanished, perhaps gone with Otter to Endlane, where the mother lived. Early rummaged in their cloudy, witless minds, had the youngest of them tortured, and then burned them where Losen could sit at his window and watch. The King needed some diversions. Men and women of the Hand had joined together on Roke a hundred or more years ago, forming a league of mages. Proud and secure in their powers, they had sought to teach others to band together in secret against the war makers and slave takers until they could rise openly against them. Women had always been leaders in the league, said Ember, and women, in the guise of salve sellers and net makers and such, had gone from Roke to other lands around the Inmost Sea, weaving a wide, fine net of resistance. Even now there were strands and knots of that net left. Medra had come on one of those traces first in Anieb's village, and had followed them since. But they had not led him here. Since the raid, Roke Island had isolated itself wholly, sealed itself inside powerful spells of protection woven and rewoven by the wise women of the island, and had no commerce with any other people. "We can't save them," Ember said. "We couldn't save ourselves." "Where will you go?" he said. "Ye gods and little fishes! Do you design dresses?" They came to the house in Boatwright Street after dark. They kicked the door in, and Hound, "She took my cup away," the Master of Iria said to the stranger, whining like a puppy, while his. Of the four of them, only the Doorkeeper moved and spoke. He took a step forward, looking from one. "You went wrong. You've come back. But you're tired, Irloth, and the way's hard when you go alone. Come home with me." him with her snout. Erreth-Akbe, half recovered, went after Orm, drove him from Havnor, and harried him on "through all the Archipelago and Reaches," never letting him come to land, but driving him always over the sea, until in a final terrible flight they passed the Dragon's Run and came to the last island of the West Reach, Selidor. There, on the outer beach, both exhausted, they faced each other and fought, "talon and fire and word and sword," until. Speech, which he must not speak. But she only shrugged, with a frowning smile.
